

JOB ADVERTISEMENT

Copenhagen, 17 April 2018

Northern Horizon Capital is an experienced investment manager operating from offices located in Copenhagen, Helsinki, Stockholm, Tallinn, Vilnius and Berlin. Northern Horizon manages several real estate funds and separate accounts and manages over €1bn in assets. Northern Horizon focuses on niche markets and specialized strategies in Northern Europe.

We are looking to hire a part-time Junior Analyst

Northern Horizon is looking for a junior analyst with strong analytical and financial skills to be part of the expansion of Northern Horizon's Danish activities. The right candidate will be part of the investment management team and work in close collaboration with the senior management.

Your future tasks will predominantly be of financial nature and you will be supporting the management team in a broader pallet of working tasks, including development of presentations for board and investor meetings, investor related activities, including presentation of investment cases and preparation of market and company analyses and other ad-hoc practical office assignments.

Expanding our Danish activities requires a significant focus on business development and we therefore expect that you, in addition to your strong analytical skill base, possess an opportunity-driven and entrepreneurial mind-set as well as an outgoing personality.

Your working hours will on average be 20 hours per week with flexible working arrangements during your exams. Ideally, you are available to start in the beginning of June.

In order to succeed in this role, we expect you to...

- Have strong analytical skills within the area of finance and an general interest in the financial sector
- Be eager to learn more about real estate investments
- Have strong communication skills
- Be opportunity-driven, have an entrepreneurial mind-set and an outgoing personality
- Have fluency in English and Danish (good knowledge of other languages will be an advantage)
- Have good interpersonal skills and a positive "can-do attitude"
- Deliver efficient performance even when deadlines are short and workloads are heavy
- Have proficiency in Microsoft Office - especially Excel and PowerPoint
- Study at your master programme and plan to commence on cand.polit or one of the financial cand.merc.'s. However, if you think you are the right candidate for the job, we would like to receive an application even if you have a slightly different profile.

For the right candidate we offer...

- A challenging and rewarding part-time role in a truly international, dynamic and friendly working environment, with a small team based in Copenhagen and many more colleagues in our international offices
- The opportunity to work with a dedicated team in a flat organisation, where your individual contributions makes a tangible difference
- Focus on your personal development to ensure that you develop your skills through relevant training
- Future possibilities to step into a full-time position after obtaining your master's degree
- Flexibility in arranging your work hours

Further Information

To apply, please send your application, CV and a copy of your diplomas together with relevant references as soon as possible and no later than 9. December to kasper.wehner@nh-cap.com. Please also visit our homepage www.nh-cap.com. If you have questions, please contact Kasper Wehner at 26189990.